

Electric December

Archimedia is one of 24 'gifts' included in Bristol's on-line advent calendar, www.electricdecember.org. The interface consists of a plan of the site, drag and drop architectural items such as roof material, windows and doors, plus icons representing interior activities of the new centre such as a juice bar and a screening room. The Archimedia group were involved in the development of the piece, designing the architectural items such as the doors and windows. The project went live on 1st December 2004, and users will be able to e-mail their finished designs back to Archimedia
